A close-up photograph of several rolls of herringbone fabric. The fabric has a distinct woven pattern of interlocking V-shapes. The rolls are stacked, with the top roll showing a light beige or tan color, and the rolls below showing darker, more muted tones. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the fabric and the way the rolls are stacked.

herringbone

Herringbone is a classic blackout textile distinguished by its subtle weave and tailored, menswear-inspired character. The understated pattern adds depth and movement across a refined palette of warm neutrals and grounded tones, offering visual interest without overpowering the space. Timeless and composed, Herringbone delivers dependable light control with an elegant, heritage-inspired presence.

The image shows a sophisticated living area. In the center is a round, plush orange velvet armchair. In front of it is a dark, round table supported by a tall, tapered brass pedestal. To the left, a sideboard with a dark, patterned surface holds a lamp with a circular, glowing shade. The background features a window with sheer white curtains and heavy, draped gold velvet curtains. The floor is a light wood or stone, and a small blue rug is visible in the bottom right corner.

Juliet is a rich velvet blackout fabric defined by its saturated jewel tones and luminous depth. Soft to the touch with a smooth, elegant drape, it brings warmth, drama, and a sense of quiet luxury to interiors. Bold yet refined, Juliet delivers complete light control with a plush, sophisticated presence suited to both classic and contemporary spaces.
